Innovations. Opportunities. Solutions. They're All at CMX-CIPHEX 2010

For Immediate Release

Toronto, ON- October 5, 2009

When the latest production of the CMX-CIPHEX Show opens its doors at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre for its three day run - March 25, 26 & 27, 2010 it will usher in new trends, emerging technology and hundreds of solutions. The show, one of the largest in North America for the mechanicals industry, has become a respected source for contractors, specifiers, architects, building managers and consulting engineers to get the latest information and hands-on opportunities to come face-to-face with tomorrow's trends.

"For decades, the show has served as the showplace for the industry", comments Show Manager, Patrick Shield. "It regularly plays host to well-known companies like the Emerson Climate Group, American Standard, Moen, Honeywell, Wiessman, York International, LG Electronics and a host of others. It's a who's who of the industry all together under one roof. Best of all, it addresses all parts of the industry from heating, air conditioning, ventilation and hearth to plumbing, piping and refrigeration".

The 2010 show promises to uphold its distinguished tradition. Over 500 exhibiting companies will host over 10,000 show visitors who travel from across Canada and the U.S. to see the products, services, applications and innovations that will set the stage for business over the next two years. "Notable new trends are geothermal, solar and wind - essentially all the new energies," continues Shield. "But, exhibitors aren't just presenting emerging trends, in many cases they're answering the question of how to incorporate them into existing systems. That's the big challenge for the industry today. It's finding solutions to specific applications."

Learning Forum, Live Demos & More

A returning favourite of attendees is the show's Learning Forum - short seminars and workshop presentations running throughout the show on new technologies, trends, codes & regulations. Hot topics promised for the schedule include How to Integrate New Technologies For Better Performance, Retrofits Using LEED Strategies, Energy Efficiency In Existing Buildings, and more. Over a dozen different topics will be presented over the three-day run, featuring popular speakers like Gordon Holness, current President of ASHRAE and Evgueniy Entchev, Ph.D. with Natural Resources Canada. The forum also offers attendees insight and updates on the National Building Code, business management, and government programs such as the Local Energy Efficiency Partnership.

More live action will be underway on the show floor at the Show Theatre Area where exhibitors cast the spotlight on products for show visitors. While the show is still months away, presentations are already on the roster for bio-mass boilers, solar domestic water heating systems and electronic wireless systems for contractors.

Contractor Ready!

Finally, is the show's contest - something industry attendees never want to miss. This time around, a 2010 Nissan Titan - outfitted and customized for the winner with tool racks, bins and one year of complimentary GPS service will be won by a lucky show visitor. Every attendee to the show is provided with a ballot to enter the draw, which will take place at the close of the show on March 27.

Easy online registration is now open and available at the show's web site: www.cmxciphexshow.com. Visitors who register before March 18, 2010 will save 50% on the cost of their badges.
